Arvil Runyon

Your mommy here my dear sweet baby. Oh my God I do not know what I will do without you. YOU were my rock, my grounder my go to guy. I am so proud of the turn you made in your life, the man you became, the son, the father, the husband. You are the bright spot everyday that I waited for to get your call and us talk about our day. We always ended I Love You and we did on Thursday night as always. I love you the most of anything in life, I wish God had taken this old broken down mommy and left her son to share his constant ray of sunshine and optimism to everyone he came in contact with You rest high on the mountain my dear baby and mommy does not lie I will be with you soon. The hole in my heart is too big and I do not know I can live without you here. You were the one I depended on more than anyone else and you always showed up I miss you so much honey, your voice and your face is in my constant. Your daddy feels the same way, he is so broken We had talked so many times about the end but it was with the knowledge you would honor our wishes and I pained knowing you would have to deal with losing us. God has a plan which I hate but baby I will see you soon. Rest now, you had worked so much the last years, to buy your new home, to provide for your family and maybe you just needed rest. I love you.
