“ oh my, my heart breaks to see this & know Myra has left this ole world, tho in a better place for sure she is, Heaven is our home eternal,, Myra was one of my very bestest of friends when I was in high school, we lost touch over the years but she was the sweetest friend I think I ever had,,we kept in touch until she had her daughter & then we'd see each other in williamson at times, we grown apart thru the years (each of us with our own families to raise) but I have never forgotten her nor ever will, May God Bless Her Family & Strengthen them,, Rest in Peace my Friend, I shall see you again one day

“ My sympathy goes to Myra's family for loosing her at such a young age. We are all comforted that our loving Creator not only has the power to restore our dead loved ones, but He is eager to do so. (Job 14:14-15). Jesus' death has made it possible for faithful humans to live as God purposed, which is life everlasting in Paradise. (Luke 23:43)

“ My heart breaks that such a sweet person had to leave this earth. I know you are in a much better place and you no longer suffer as you suffered here on earth. You have no more pain and no more broken heart. I love you my dear cousin. Rest in Jesus's arm baby.
