“ Wade always remembered to call my mom, his sister Alma almost every week and chat about the old times and how much fun they had as kids. The last time we were home I remember talking with my Uncle Wade about our heavenly home and how beautiful it was going to be. I remember when he came to live with us, I was probably 3 at the time and he worked on one of the ferry's that went back and forth from Portsmouth to Norfolk. I have a picture of him all sprawled out on our sofa, hat pushed back on his head looking super tired after a long day on the water. I think at some point in time he missed the hills and they beckoned him back home, they have a way of doing that. I think there is magic in the hills even for me. Wade was very special and I, we, will miss him so much.

The Lime Green candle represents the fight for Lymphoma. That is the one thing Wade and I had in common was Ficuluar Lymphoma.

The photo of Dad in a cowboy hat is unusual as I can't remember him ever playing dress up with us or wearing a cowboy hat. However, he loved watching western movies and Cowboys. He recently told me that it was one of his greatest joys in life. It is my firm belief that he is now enjoying the life of a cowboy in heaven.
